

ABSTRACT

A method for providing a set of automated financial services to a set of clients. The set of automated financial services including payroll processing, trust fund management, investment of funds and ACH transactions processing. The system reduces financial risk for an administration by providing incoming transactions verification and risk management.